

Villa M Island Paradise

Beachfront Residence in Fisherman's Village

“An enchanting and supremely comfortable private beach house in Koh Samui’s most engaging oceanfront location”

Villa M acpherson

Villa Macpherson (Villa M) is an elegant, contemporary 5-bedroom villa located in the heart of Koh Samui's most authentic and fashionable seaside community, Fisherman's Village, Bophut. The property offers a rare combination of absolute beachfront luxury and quaint village charm.

The villa's attractive and distinctive design immediately draws the eye, with a striking white facade complemented by a textured antique wooden Shanxi doorway that hints at the rich furnishings within. The interiors tastefully compliment the crisp exterior, with white-walled open spaces, plantation shutters and polished, recycled teakwood floors throughout.

Lovingly designed and constructed by Neill and Leslie Macpherson, this stunning villa is the perfect example of understated luxury. The couple has paid special attention to every detail, from Buddhist ceremonies and auspicious dates chosen for the build, to stunning inlaid furniture from Rajasthan in India. In fact, every room in the 3-storey holiday home has been thoughtfully furnished in an intimate colonial Asian style, with antiques and artwork from Burma, Laos, Vietnam, Cambodia, and of course, Thailand. The eclectic mix of collectables brings to mind a glorious past, but the heritage appeal is also juxtaposed with a range of distinctly modern luxuries and high-end home technology, offering guests a cool balance of traditional and contemporary comfort.

“We chose Thailand for many reasons,” says Leslie. “We love the Buddhist culture, the warm, hospitable, and friendly people and of course the delicious food. simply put, whenever we visited the land of smiles we felt that we were coming home. We found Fisherman’s Village, Bophut, on the north east coast of the Island, particularly charming as it consists, for the main part, of wooden and original Chinese shop fronts. Neill’s father was Chinese and a descendant of Chinese traders so he felt an instant connection.”

The interior of the property is a tasteful extension of the exterior, with white walls, plantation shutters and the rich texture of recycled teak floors. Visually stunning, comfortable and evoking a feeling of yesteryear, Villa M is the perfect place to relax. Five stylish double bedrooms with crisp white linen, individual ensuite bathrooms with the latest fixtures and fittings, a modern designer kitchen, a study which offers a quiet place to read novels from the library, two separate living rooms with plush sofas and beach front views, and balconies complete with Burmese plantation chairs from which you can watch the magnificent sunsets through swaying palm trees.

“In furnishings, we have been inspired by memories of the colonial homes we loved as children growing up in Asia,” adds Leslie. “We were also influenced by cherished stays at The Oriental Hotel, Bangkok as well as the Strand, Yangon, and Raffles, Singapore. We paid particular attention to detail and sourced some wonderful furniture and antiques from all over Thailand and the east. We also added special pieces and memorabilia from our private collection.”

Villa M The lifestyle

Staying at Villa M is a rare blend of pleasures. On the ocean facing side, the villa opens onto a private, lawned beachside garden and pool, with inspiring views of Koh Samui's stunning north coast and offshore islands. Covered terraces on each floor offer magnificent seascape views, whilst the roof-top is an exceptionally idyllic spot to relax on a sunbed, enjoy sunset cocktails at the bar, or luxuriate in the Jacuzzi, overlooking the fishing harbour and turquoise waters of the Gulf of Siam. When asked what they love most about Villa M, the owners have no shortage of highlights — location, design, furnishings, not to mention the attentive, discreet, and unobtrusive staff, who are dedicated to ensuring a personalised and luxurious vacation experience. "Whether it's R and R under palm trees on the beach, watching the sunset from the roof top jacuzzi, relaxing at home, dining in with friends, discovering new restaurants... over 40 in the strip, we love it all.
